a deep and widespread crisis affects modern economic theory a crisis that derives from the absence of a vision a set of widely shared political and social preconceptions on which all economics ultimately depends this absence in turn reflects the collapse of the keynesian view that provided such a foundation from 1940 through the early 1970s comparable to earlier visions provided by smith ricardo mill and marshall the unraveling of keynesianism has been followed by a division into discordant and ineffective camps whose common denominator seems to be their shared analytical refinement and lack of practical applicability this provocative analysis attempts both to describe this state of affairs and to suggest the direction in which economic thinking must move if it is to regain the relevance and remedial power it now pointedly lacks the origin of this work is to be found in the cyclostyled course on the optimal allocation of resources in the firm and in the nation taught by mr boiteux at the centre d etudes des programmes economiques c e p e paris from 1957 to 1960 of course several successive later rewritings and a great many additions have profoundly altered the initial version starting from a remarkably clear and concise exposition of economic theory we have ended with a book that is several hundred pages long it is not at all certain that mr boiteux would recognise this intellectual sponsorship nor is it certain that the gain in information justifies such an increase in size however that may be the initial plan has survived without mr boiteux this book would never have been undertaken it is a pleasant duty for us respectfully to acknowledge our debt to him here microeconomic analysis that is to say that analysis which results from the study of the behaviour and activities of individual decision units was for a long time the main concern of the neo classicists quite recently the introduction of macroeconomic theory dealing with aggregate quantities seemed to relegate it to second place but this is not where it belongs we tend to agree with mr raymond barre that there are two different scales of analysis that complement rather than contrast with one another includes annual list of doctoral dissertations in political economy in progress in american universities and colleges and the hand book of the american economic association
