from the author of Bowling Alone and our kids a sweeping yet remarkably accessible the wall street journal analysis that offers superb often counterintuitive insights the new york times to demonstrate how we have gone from an individualistic i society to a more communitarian we society and then back again and how we can learn from that experience to become a stronger more unified nation deep and accelerating inequality unprecedented political polarization vitriolic public discourse a fraying social fabric public and private narcissism americans today seem to agree on only one thing this is the worst of times but we ve been here before during the gilded age of the late 1800s america was highly individualistic starkly unequal fiercely polarized and deeply fragmented just as it is today however as the twentieth century opened america became slowly unevenly but steadily more egalitarian more cooperative more generous a society on the upswing more focused on our responsibilities to one another and less focused on our narrower self interest sometime during the 1960s however these trends reversed leaving us in today s disarray in a magnificent and visionary book The New Republic drawing on his inimitable combination of statistical analysis and storytelling robert putnam analyzes a remarkable confluence of trends that brought us from an i society to a we society and then back again he draws on inspiring lessons for our time from an earlier era when a dedicated group of reformers righted the ship putting us on a path to becoming a society once again based on community this is putnam s most remarkable science work yet a fitting capstone to a brilliant career what goes on in creative writers heads when they write what can cognitive psychology neuroscience literary studies and previous research in creative writing studies tell creative writers about the processes of their writing mind creative writers have for centuries undertaken cognitive research some described cognition in vivid exegetical essays but most investigated the mind in creative writing itself in descriptions of the thinking of characters in fiction poetry and plays the inner voicings and inner visualising revealed in greek choruses in soliloquies in stream of consciousness narratives are creative writers research results from studying their own cognition and the thinking of others the creative writer s mind is a book for creative writers it sets out to cross the gap between creative writing and science between the creative arts and cognitive research
